DYW Weekly Bulletin!

Interested in an opportunity? See Miss Hendrie

Marketing

DMA Talent are offering you the chance to find out what a career in the marketing industry could look like, see a successful marketing campaign and offer an understanding of the different roles involved in a marketing campaign. You will also be given more information about the various pathways into the marketing industry. This is a virtual event so you just need to apply online!

Law

Burness Paull is offering work experience to S4-S6 school pupils who are interested in a career in law. The experience will be virtual and will give you the chance to have a better understanding of what a career in law could like, as well as an insight into what the day to day life of a successful law firm looks like. Applications are only open until 25th March so you must get your interest in early in order to secure a spot!

Medicine

Scotland's leading medical research charity is inviting S4, S5 and S6 pupils to take part in its Medical Research Scotland Academy – a free online programme to help you understand career paths into medical research and what to expect when studying at university. This programme will take place every Friday morning for 4 weeks and will see you learn from inspiring young scientists who conduct cutting-edge research into the diagnosis and treatment of disease, as well as university lecturers and industry leaders from across medical research, science and technology. The deadline is soon so see Miss Hendrie ASAP!
